WILSON TO PASS SUB DISPUTE TO CONGRESS. OFFICIALS HERE SAY

Receipt of Proof That Ships Were Torpedoed Without Warning Will Result in Prompt Action.

IS WEARY OF WRITING NOTES

President Is Expected to Let Capitol Decide Whether U. S. Should Break Off Diplomatic Relations with Germany—Four Americans Injured.

President Wilson is through writing notes to Germany on submarine warfare. If proof is obtained that either the Channel liner Sussex or the steamship Englishman was torpedoed without warning he will submit the facts to Congress for its consideration,

The House and Senate then will decide whether this government should break off diplomatic relations with Germany or take other measures to obtain satisfaction.

This information was forthcoming last night from authoritative sources, and is accepted in official circles as accurately stating the position of the administration

It was definitely learned by the State Department yesterday that no Americans lost their lives on the Sussex. Four were injured, two of them seriously. They were
